Virtual Meeting

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, SNAC members held its first meeting virtually through the Google Meet platform.

Supporting students virtually during quarantine

Premier Legault has stated that he will give two weeks notice prior to reopening elementary schools this year if Sante Publique says it is safe to do so. It will remain a parent's decision on whether or not they choose to send their child to school or continue to learn on the virtual platform. High Schools will remain closed with online resources available.

Teachers and staff including resource staff are now able to support students virtually. Learning kits are sent by the ministry to school's weekly and teachers will modify and adapt them to their classrooms for the following week. Parents are also welcome to go onto the ministry website directly <https://ecoleouverte.ca/en/>

LBPSB has put resources on two new websites to help families and update them regularly.

The educational services department has a wonderful page of resources sorted by cycles

<https://sites.google.com/lbpearson.ca/esdresources/home>

The student services department has also put together a website full of resources to help support students mental health and well being here <https://sites.google.com/lbpearson.ca/ssdresources/home>

If you have a child who has yet to hear from their teacher or resource staff, feel free to email them directly.
